Their descendants would change the world forever and one day reinstate the kingdom of Israel under the authority of the Jewish Messiah. Their lives bore witness to the best of humankind and the worst of humankind. Life under authoritarian dictatorship pressed them all into a life of faith in the most adverse conditions. This is their story.

They Called Him Yeshua: The Story of the Young Jesus

Since the fall of humanity in the garden of Eden, humankind has lost its right standing before HaShem. Our Master Yeshua came to the earth to restore that relationship, and to teach people the proper view of themselves and how to serve God. A story told by Rebbe Nachman of Breslov parallels the work of our Master Yeshua.

You might think the answers are obvious, but there is one day on the Jewish calendar which, one might argue, is suited to commemorate both events—both the day of his birth and the day of his death. That day is the ninth of Av (Tisha b’Av), the anniversary of the destruction of the Temple. According to one legend in the Talmud, the Messiah was born on Tisha b’Av, the same day that the Romans destroyed the Temple.
